Types of Weather Alerts

Special Weather Statements

Special Weather Statements are the least urgent type of alert and are issued to let people know that conditions are unusual and could cause concern.

Advisories

Advisories are issued for specific weather events (like blowing snow, fog, freezing drizzle and frost) that are less severe, but could still significantly impact Canadians.

Watches

Watches alert you about weather conditions that are favourable for a storm or severe weather, which could cause safety concerns.

Warnings

As certainty increases about the path and strength of a storm system, a watch may be upgraded to a Warning, which is an urgent message that severe weather is either occurring or will occur. Warnings are usually issued six to 24 hours in advance, although some severe weather (e.g. tornadoes) can occur rapidly, with less than a half hour's notice.

Winter Driving Information

Winter weather can create additional driving hazards such as ice and snow accumulation or decreased visibility. When these or other conditions reach extreme levels, the OPP may choose to close one or more roads for public safety. Roads may be closed for several hours, or even several days, depending on the size and scale of the winter storm.

Drivers are urged to consult regional sources of information before setting out on the road and use caution during the entire winter season.

Tips for how to be prepared:

- Put winter tires on vehicles in time for the winter season.
- For safety, don't pass or drive close to snow plows & salt trucks.
- Stay informed of your local weather forecast & alerts.
- During weather related events, avoid all unnecessary travel.
- Have local tow truck contact information & an emergency car kit.
- Respect travel advisories & road closure notices.

Emergency Car Kit

If you have a car, keep an emergency kit in your vehicle, especially for the cold weather season. Below are some items to consider in your kit:

- Food that won't easily spoil, such as energy bars.
- Water in plastic bottles (won't break if frozen).

Significant Weather Events & County Roads

Huron County has three types of roads: Local Municipal (lower-tier), County (upper-tier), and Provincial (Ministry of Transportation). The County of Huron is responsible for County roads only.

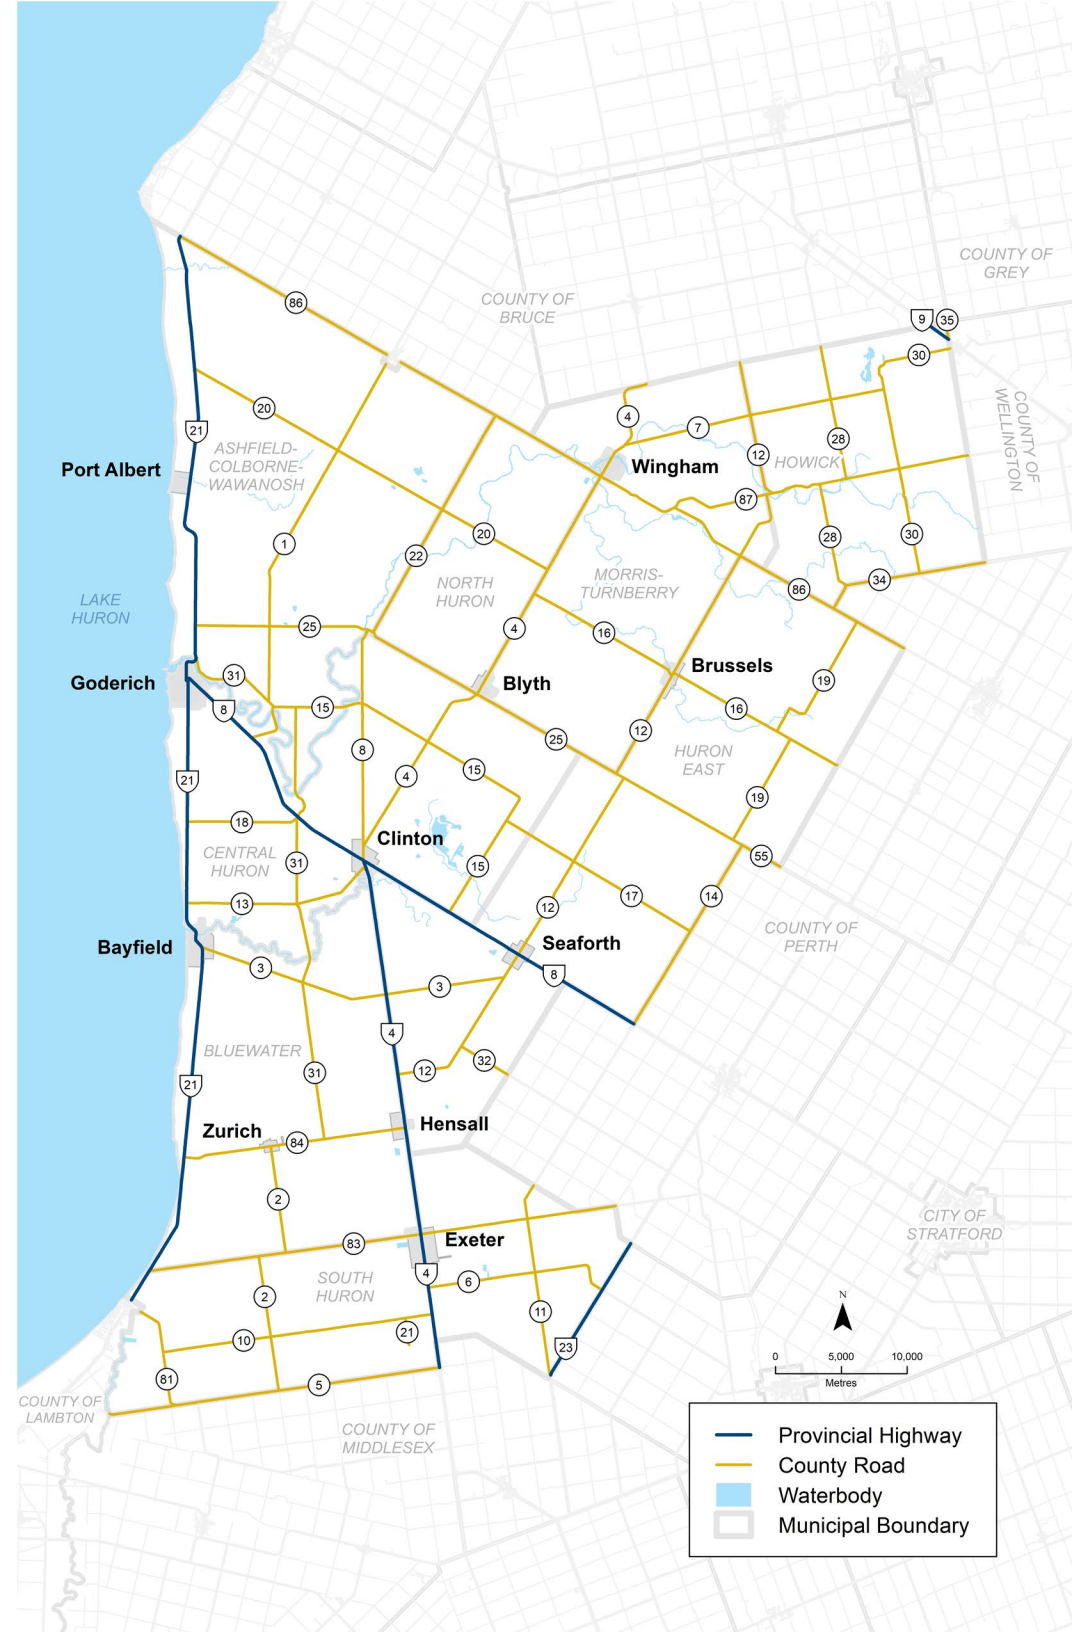

When the County is experiencing weather that may affect its ability to maintain the County Roads at the service levels that road users would normally expect, the County of Huron will declare a “Significant Weather Event” for upper-tier roads.

Typically, a Significant Weather Event Notice from the County of Huron would follow weather warnings issued by Environment Canada for the region.

During this time, a banner will appear across the top of the County of Huron website providing notice: www.HuronCounty.ca

The banner will be removed when the County has declared the Significant Weather Event to be over.

Please note that the County’s Significant Weather Events do NOT indicate a closure of any road or an imminent closure of any road. Road closures and openings are issued by OPP.

Emergency Preparedness is everyone's responsibility. Environment Canada, Ministry of Transportation, local law enforcement, County of Huron, local municipalities, and each individual resident has a role to play in keeping our roads and community safe. Let's work together to stay safe this winter season.
